COMMENDATION.

The following commendations were written while David Lipscomb College was the Nashville Bible School:

The Nashville Bible School is the best school in my knowledge, and I had rather educate my children there than anywhere else. Its literary training is as good as the best; besides, a Bible training and Christian influence unequalled.

C. M. PULLIAS.
 (Evangelist.)

I have neither the ability, the experience, nor the information necessary to make me an authority on the subject, of course; but all I know about the Nashville Bible School is good, and some things I know about it are superlatively good. T. B. LARIMORE.
 (Evangelist.)

I regard the Nashville Bible School one of the best schools of the kind in the land; and if I were going to send my children away from home to school or lived within reach of this school, I would certainly send them there. In addition to the instruction in books, the Bible included, the moral and refining influence of this school is priceless.

F. W. SMITH.
 (Evangelist.)

I consider the religious and moral training which young people receive at the Nashville Bible School to be the very best; and when parents have to send their children from home to school, they could not do better than to patronize it. While it teaches everything that is usually taught in a first-class college, it teaches the Bible and true religion. This, of course, is the most important of all. I take pleasure in commending the school to all prospective students.

F. B. SVOLEY.
 (Evangelist.)

The Nashville Bible School has done much in preparing young men and women for usefulness in the various callings of life. In addition to daily instruction in the Bible, it has classical, literary, and scientific courses, with a well-trained corps of teachers doing thorough work in these departments. I commend it to boys and girls who wish to go where they can obtain a first-class education.

M. C. KURFEES.
 (Evangelist, Campbell Street Church, Louisville, Ky., and Editor Gospel Advocate.)

After having had an intimate acquaintance with the Nashville Bible School for more than fifteen years, I am fully convinced that it is one of the best schools in existence. The thorough drill given in
